

Report on Euphony'18, the annual event of Finance and Investment Cell

Euphony'18, the annual event of Finance and Investment Cell, Aryabhata College, was organized by the student on 22nd and 23rd of March. The events arranged by the students were responded with enthusiasm throughout different colleges of the Delhi University and covered the following:

Shark Tank which was a start-up competition inspired by the show 'Shark Tank': The start-ups presented their business plan and product, or a prototype at the very least, to investors seeking funding in return of a certain share of stakes in their start-up. The event received a very positive response and was one of the first events of its kind held in Aryabhata College.

M.O.Gamble - or Masala On Gamble: The event was based on similar grounds as the traditional event of Mock Stock where the participants played the role of a purchase manager of a restaurant and had to complete their respective menus by purchasing and selling the commodities they have been allotted after bidding. The event created a lot of hype among the students desiring to see their position as an investor in the real market. All in all, the 'investors' were satisfied with their efforts and the teamwork gave justice to the slogan of the event, i.e., "Investor Khush Hua."

Lockdown: It was a fun-filled event wherein the participants had to solve riddles to reach to the next round, followed by a round of treasure hunt to get the winning prize. Interestingly, the event inculcated the concept of Prisoner's Dilemma very practically, leading to a 'quite ou double' (double or quits) situation ultimately.

Crisis Management: An event for participants to solve macro level Economic problems of the country and then to discuss it with other teams seeking the best strategy to tackle the problem, the idea of the event was to raise the temperature by propagating a train of progressive and pragmatic thoughts.

The two-day event was a successful step towards building a more aware and a more pragmatic community. The participation from other colleges and the effort of the students and teachers-in-charge is what it all comes down to which was justified by the event's success.
