INDIA'S G20 PRESIDENCY Entrepreneurial diplomacy & boost

By Ajayna Khanna
BA (H) Political Science, 3rd
Year, Aryabhatta College

The assumption of the G20 presidency by India offers a unique opportunity to drive the global agenda on entrepreneurship and innovation. The G20, a gathering of the world's leading economies, serves as a platform for international economic cooperation, with countries accounting for a considerable share of global GDP, commerce, and population. India's foreign policy has changed towards global leadership, and the G20 presidency provides an opportunity for the country to deploy entrepreneurial diplomacy as a foreign policy weapon to boost global entrepreneurship and small business growth.

However, boosting entrepreneurship and innovation faces hurdles such as limited access to money, poor regulatory regimes, and societal attitudes that do not encourage entrepreneurship. India may address these issues by campaigning for entrepreneurship-friendly financial policies, reducing procedures, and encouraging resources and infrastructure. India may also serve as an example for other nations seeking to boost entrepreneurship and innovation by sharing its experiences and best practices.

The Group of Twenty, or G20, is a major international conference that brings together the world's greatest economies. It was founded to foster global financial stability, economic prosperity, and development. It is a prime platform for international economic cooperation, with countries accounting for a significant percentage of the global economy, accounting for more than 85% of global GDP, 75% of global trade, and about two-thirds of the world's population.

India's foreign policy has evolved to take on leadership roles on the global stage, guided by Prime Minister Modi's vision. On December 1, 2023, India assumed the G20 presidency, a significant stride forward. This gives India a rare and unique opportunity to contribute to the global agenda on important international concerns. During its G20 chairmanship, India will hold over 200 meetings in 32 different locations across the country. The G-20 Summit in 2023 will be one of the most high-profile international events ever hosted by India.

Entrepreneurial diplomacy is the use of entrepreneurship promotion as a foreign policy weapon. It implies leveraging the entrepreneurial ecosystem and the private sector to achieve diplomatic objectives like job creation, economic growth, and innovation. As the G20 presidency, India has the diplomatic arena to promote entrepreneurship, providing an excellent platform for promoting global entrepreneurship and innovation by leveraging the entrepreneurial ecosystem and the private and working with private sector organisations and NGOs to provide resources and support to entrepreneurs.

Another challenge faced by entrepreneurship is an unfavourable regulatory environment. This can take many forms from complex and time-consuming processes for starting a business to cumbersome regulations that make it difficult for entrepreneurs to scale their businesses. India has the opportunity to work with other G20 countries to streamline regulations and make it easier for entrepreneurs to start and grow their businesses.
