An exhilarating chapter unfolded as the Finance and Investment Cell at Aryabhata College orchestrated the Finance Premier League (FPL), a dynamic event comprising two riveting rounds: Business Pitch and Portfolio Management. This intellectual battleground tested participants' strategic acuity, challenging them to craft a compelling business plan and navigate the complexities of portfolio management.

Round 1: Business Pitch

In the Business Pitch round of the Finance Premier League, teams presented their entrepreneurial visions, including company details, business models, and marketing strategies. They navigated financing intricacies, provided insights into unit economics, conducted comprehensive company and competition analyses, and addressed legal considerations. Projecting their company's trajectory over three years, teams concluded by proposing the IPO price and divestment percentage, showcasing strategic insight in this captivating round.

The top 8 teams, were then sent to the next round.

Round 2: Portfolio Management

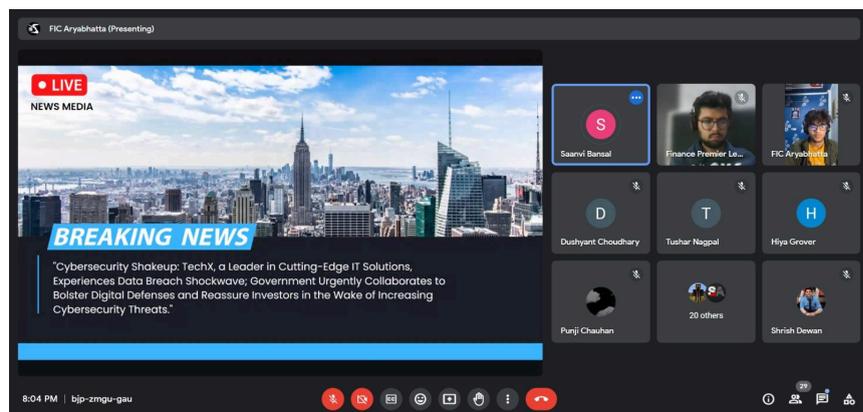

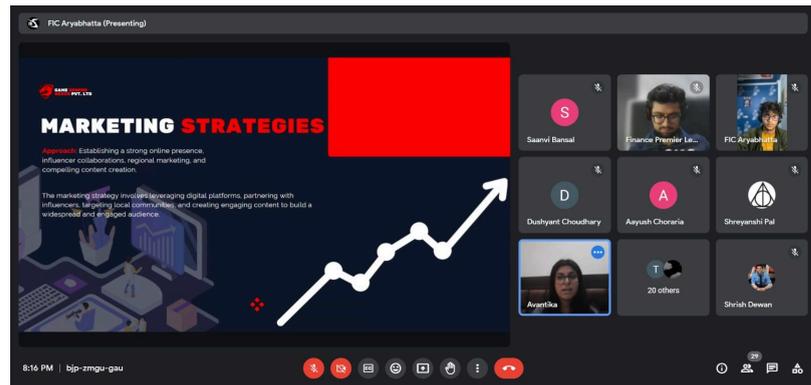

In the final phase, the 8 qualified teams transformed into portfolio management firms with the mission to strategically invest in 8 fictional stocks, each representing a unique company. The game unfolded over a time period of March to November, requiring teams to place monthly orders to buy/sell shares, responding to dynamic market conditions shaped by monthly headlines. The rhythmic flow included the Initial Order (March End), News Flash (April Start), Order (April Mid), Implementation of the Headlines (April End), and so forth.

The Finance Premier League not only tested financial prowess but also celebrated adaptability in navigating real-world economic challenges.

The winners were announced in an offline meeting. Team Foxpunch was announced as the winner and was given a trophy as an appreciation token, runner ups, Team Farmease Connect, were given an honorary mention.

This event stands as a testament to the Finance and Investment Cell's commitment to nurturing astute financial minds, organizing intellectual events, and preparing the next generation of leaders to tackle the intricate landscapes of business and finance.
